

Is this "your notebook" or "you're notebook"?

小5～中高 (Grade 5-High School)

M3

L1 Is this "your notebook" or
"you're notebook"?

Let's Study
Today, we will study your and you're.

A female teacher with blonde hair, wearing a white shirt and grey pants, stands on the left holding a book and pointing with a pen at a large purple sign. The background is a classroom with a clock, calendar, chalkboard, and potted plant.

When do we use your and you're?

YOUR

It shows that a thing belongs to a person.

YOUR

Hi, Amy, is this your notebook?

Yes, it is my notebook.
Thank you,
Sara.

YOUR

Rico, your books are on the table.

Thank you,
Ken.

YOUR

This is my cat. Her name is Kitty.

I like your cat.
She's cute!

A teacher with blonde hair, wearing a white shirt and grey pants, stands on the left side of the slide. She is holding a red book in her left arm and a black pen in her right hand, pointing at the sign. The background is a classroom with a clock on the wall, a building outside, and several wooden chairs with blue seats.

When do we use your and you're?

YOU'RE

It is a shortcut for the words you and are. It talks about what is happening to a person.

YOU'RE

An illustration of two women in traditional Japanese kimonos standing in a park with cherry blossom trees. The woman on the left, Nagi, is wearing a red kimono with a white fur collar and a pink bag. The woman on the right, Sena, is wearing a pink kimono with a yellow obi. A small green bird is perched on a branch above them. The background features pink cherry blossoms, green hills, and a small house in the distance.

Wow, Nagi, you're wearing a very pretty kimono!

Thank you, Sena.
You're very beautiful today, too!

YOU'RE

Thank you for giving me ice cream, Yuna.

You're
welcome,
Yuki.

YOU'RE

Hannah, can you play soccer?

No, Paul. But you're very good at it!

Let's Answer! Choose your or you're.

1.

I like _____ flowers, Amy.

2.

Is that _____ dog, Kim?

Let's Answer! Choose your or you're.

3.

_____ a good jump rope player, Jane!

4.

Thank you for the cake, Mom!

_____ welcome, Nora.

Let's Answer! Choose your or you're.

5.

Wow, Aoi! _____ studying very hard!

6.

Happy Birthday, Marie! Here is _____ gift.

ANSWER KEY

1. I like your flowers, Amy.
2. Is that your dog, Kim?
3. You're a good jump rope player, Jane!
4. You're welcome, Nora.
5. Wow, Aoi! You're studying very hard!
6. Happy Birthday, Marie! Here is your gift.